

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

The Senate, in session at 10 o'clock, on Wednesday, May 3, rejected the nomination of John H. Brown, of Ohio, to the office of Minister to Honduras, by a vote of 19 yeas and 21 nays.

HOUSE.

Chicago, May 4. The House, on Wednesday, rejected the bill for the relief of John H. Brown, of Ohio, by a vote of 19 yeas and 21 nays. The bill was reported by the Committee on the Judiciary, and was passed by the House on May 3, 1866.

We were in attendance at the City Hall on Friday, drawn there by a policeman, he it understood, by a desire to see and hear the administration of certain cases that day. In the worthy Judge, who presides over the Alderman's Court, and administers justice in large quantities, as some think, but seasoned with such excellent advice, as equally large quantities, as doubtless makes the transgressors feel most seriously their own unworthiness.

The House on Thursday passed the bill admitting Colorado, by yeas 80, nays 55. This quick result surprised everybody, the bill being taken from the Speaker's table, the House refused to table it by 23 yeas and 109 nays, then referred it to the committee by 44 to 74, then repassed the amendment by Washburne, of Illinois, requiring the white to be stricken out of the constitution by 39 yeas and 59 nays, and then passed the bill as amended. There seems to be a general apprehension that the President will veto it.

James Partridge, Minister to San Salvador, has resigned. The President has withdrawn the nomination of Nicholas Smith, of Kansas, as Minister to Greece.

United States Marshal Jackson, of Wisconsin, has been removed, and Gen. Cassius Fairchild has been nominated his successor.

It is rumored that Wm. A. Howard, Postmaster at Detroit, has been removed. Congressman Eldridge boasts that there is to be a general sweeping among office-holders in Wisconsin who do not support the President's policy.

Tom Florence, sectional Union, closed an editorial this evening on Congress as follows: "The men had better beware. They are not a legal Congress, but an unconstitutional body of usurpers. The country feels the great error the President was in, in ever recognizing them at all in their self-important rump condition. A little Cromwellianism is just the thing that is needed now, and there are two hundred thousand Democrats north who would back that kind of pluck with a good will."

A dispatch from Commodore Rodgers to the Navy Department, dated Valparaiso, March 31st, says: Upon my arrival at this port with the squadron, I called upon the English Admiral, who informed me he intended to prevent any sudden bombardment, and would only suffer it after ample notice. To this I made no reply, but having considered the matter, I sought occasion by next day that I would join him in preventing a sudden bombardment, and would also go as much farther as he chose. I assured him that the Monadnock could take care of the Numancia, and that it was absolutely certain that in not more than 30 minutes the Monadnock, entirely unassisted, would leave only the masts and the wooden vessels, English and American, could look out for the Spanish wooden vessels. The English Admiral said at first that would go with me, for I plainly declared that I would not take a step without him. I said I had no intention of becoming a cat's paw to draw European chestnuts out of the fire, and then have the powers I served laughing at my signed paw while they enjoyed the fruits of my temerity. The English Admiral finally determined to throw the responsibility upon the English Minister, who did not choose to act in the premises. English co-operation having failed, no action on my part was taken, as none had been proposed. When I was assured that the English Admiral was determined not to resist the bombardment, I called upon him and said that I did not choose to drift into a position where I had no purpose to collide, and I should move my vessels out of the Spanish way. This intention I communicated verbally to the Spanish Admiral.

The Memphis riot culminated in a general conflagration of the negro quarters on Wednesday night and the killing of some fifteen negroes by the mob. The negroes, on Wednesday morning, exasperated by the previous day's injury, attempted to secure arms at Fort Pickens, but were repulsed off, and at 9 o'clock on Wednesday morning probably 1500 blacks were assembled in South street, when startling rumors reached the city that they were preparing to march on the city and burn it.

This was the signal for a general outpouring of the law whites, who pillaged the gun stores and rushed down South street, headed by a posse armed by the Mayor.

Fifteen or twenty negroes and one white man were killed in the collision. During the afternoon and evening stray negroes were pursued and shot, and then the conflagration and pillage began.

On Thursday morning, General Stone, commanding the District of West Tennessee, issued the following circular: "Circumstances compel the undersigned to take measures with the civil affairs of Memphis. It is forbidden for any persons, without authority of the undersigned, to assemble together any posse of armed or unarmed men, either white or colored. This does not include the police, and will not be taken as such. Any persons who assemble for any purpose, whether armed or unarmed, will be liable to arrest and punishment."

The above order was probably issued forth by the fact that the Mayor,

John Park, has been on a spree drunk since the riot commenced, and is therefore unfit to govern the city. The Times speaks of all sorts of rumors of an intention to march to-night, which are only the result of the gullible credence accorded by the vandals to the Mayor.

The War Department has issued an order that hereafter, civilians shall not be tried by military courts, where civil tribunals are in existence. The order does not apply to convicts. The following answer to the Governor of North Carolina, is published, dated Executive Mansion, April 27th: "I am directed by the President to inform you that the proclamation of April 2d was not intended to interfere with military commissions then or previously organized, or trials then or previously pending. Gen. Ruler has been instructed to proceed with the trial of Major Goz, but before the Executive sentence to report fully to the War Department."

The press comments on the registration report, shows great diversity of opinion and while most Republican papers are willing to accept it, all have some fault to find. The New York Evening Post says, suppose the full elections unfavorable, it may then be sure that next Congress will not only withdraw these conditions, but will repeal the test oath and the civil rights act; that is, our own imprudence will have sacrificed the great objects already gained.

The Commercial Advertiser says, the plan is a lame attempt to ratify what good the President has done, substituting for it a scheme that will be good enough till after the election. The Springfield Republican says if the committee expect the Northern States to sustain them in imposing such conditions, we fear they will be greatly disappointed. It is not easy to win success by any party measure which bears on its face evidence that it has no other or better purpose.

The Chicago Tribune regrets that the plan does not include negro suffrage, but as a policy of care and cautious political expedient adopted by a majority of carrying the election, it regards the plan as very strong. The New York Times says, while most of the propositions are just and sound, its leading purpose, namely: the election of the next President by a divided union, is monstrously unjust, unwise and impracticable, and if persisted in by Congress, will lead to disastrous consequences.

The St. Louis Democrat says, it is scarcely to be hoped that a plan less objectionable can receive the requisite two-thirds vote of Congress. The New York Tribune is disappointed in believing that timid counsels have overthrown negro suffrage, while the party might as well have carried the game as the game.

The Boston Advertiser says, the opinion of the committee that this is the best that can be done, must be deemed decisive, and we are glad to see indications of a general disposition in Union men to forego personal views and unite to secure the adoption of the report.

The House debated and passed the bill creating the grade of General in the army. Messrs. Henderson, Lane, Porter and Hancock, appointed by a convention, have arrived, and laid before the President an official copy of the new Constitution and ordinance of the new Constitution.

The President expressed himself gratified to learn that the unanimous feeling of the people of Texas had accepted the result of the war. He said he had the utmost confidence in ultimate administration and that time and patience would solve the problem.

A London letter, 21st April, notices the failure of Barings' banking company, liabilities £25,000,000. The Conkling-Blaine imbroglio furnishes temporary relief, in the midst of Congressional politics east. The gent claimed to father the Constitutional Amendment which bore Blaine's name and their growing jealousy burst out last week in the debate on the army bill when Conkling, having denounced the Provost Marshal's bureau as a corruption, was answered by Blaine that Conkling had been caught by Gen. Fry in corrupt schemes. Fry comes to the relief in a letter, filling two columns of the Intelligence, showing up Conkling, upon which Conkling appealed to the House for an investigation, promising himself to make good his original assertion. The Speaker named a select committee to investigate the alleged abuse in the Provost Marshal's bureau. An interesting report may be expected.

The convention held at Knoxville yesterday, adopted resolutions in favor of a separate State government for East Tennessee, and appointed a committee to bring the question before the Legislature.

The telegraph news this morning is more than usually interesting. Colorado only awaits Presidential signature to become a State. It is thought President will veto. He is on record in a special message favoring the admission. The House has enlarged Nevada by reducing Utah and Arizona. Hope the bill will fall in the Senate. Tennessee is moving for a division of the State. Schenck's army bill is defeated—vote reconsidered and bill sent to committee. That is the end of it in all probability. Senate refuses to confirm Blair, Collector Internal Revenue, St. Louis. Then there is considerable news of a political character and miscellaneous intelligence, altogether making up very interesting morning despatches. Everybody will read them and form own opinion on the subjects telegraphed.

SAD ACCIDENT.—We are pained to learn that Lieutenant Clark, of the 1st Michigan Cavalry, who left here on Capt. Birney's command a few days since, was shot and died from the effects of it, May 2d, at South Bend, just beyond Ft. Belvoir. He was in the act of pulling a tent out of the wagon when one of the post-cavalry men, discharging it, shot him almost instantly.

Local and Miscellaneous.

MAJOR S. C. STAPLES, U. S. PAYMASTER, arrived in the city Saturday evening.

We received no dispatches yesterday, on account of heavy storms on the line.

MONTANA REMAINT.—Mr. Hayes has sold his interest in this popular eating house to his partner, Frank Smith, who will continue the business at the same place.

"ALOCK'S" Omnibus makes daily trips to and from the Warm Springs and Camp Douglas. His superior style of handling the reins and his variable politeness renders "Alock" a favorite with those who frequent the "Springs" and "Camp."

The Salt Lake House is his starting-point. Give his vehicle a trial.

BUILDING.—Main street will be greatly improved this season. If builders would use brick or stone instead of miserable adobe, which do not wear more than two or three years, they would not only benefit themselves but gratify persons who may occupy the buildings—one may not like a section of wall sliding down on his goods. It does not pay.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—The Walter Bray Troupe gave one of their best performances to a large audience, Saturday night. We understand that on account of the condition of the roads, north, they will give a few more performances in this city.

This evening a fine programme will be presented, concluding with the Leaves of a Lover. Walter Bray appearing in the character of Peter Spiggle and Miss Flora Bray as Gertrude.

POLICE.—Under this heading we find in the Telegraph of Sunday morning the following items:

Dr. Smith, for assaulting J. G. Smith, the policeman at the Academy of Music, was yesterday fined $15.00, and for resisting the officer at the time of his arrest, a further fine of $15.00.

Mr. Weston, for interfering with the officer in arresting Dr. Smith, was fined $10.00.

Both of the defendants gave notice of an appeal.

We have not made a practice of reporting the proceedings of that branch of the church sitting shop, generally known as Alderman Clinton's Court, but of the above cases we have a few words to say.

In our issue of Saturday morning we left the above mentioned parties released on bail, to appear at two o'clock p. m. Friday, at which time they were on hand, together with a dense crowd of interested spectators, and that entirely superfluous element in a Mormon court room, the entire Gentile legal fraternity of the city, and some transient lawyers, who came to assist us in the trying ordeal.

The court opened with the usual ceremonies, considerable swearing was done, extended legal arguments were brought up, the dignified Alderman relieved himself of several elaborate and extended opinions, in which he told us to be good boys, and that it was naughty to carry pistols, after which the court adjourned until morning, when a decision was to be given.

The parties interested were promptly on hand. The aforesaid Alderman gave us some more good advice; said "he wanted to do everybody good;" we were very much affected, felt bad, and lighted a fresh cigar.

At last a decision was rendered as stated in the paragraph at the commencement of this article. We told him the condition of our financial affairs would not admit of our contributing an "X" to the "treasury of the Lord"—our friends had nothing to lend us for the purpose, and our companion in affliction was in the same situation. We told the man of law we would appeal. He said we couldn't. But the kind-hearted gentleman granted us one hour before going to jail. We felt very bad. We went up street—we called our small circle of friends about us, and drank a parting glass of lemonade,—(not at the church saloon—they don't make good lemonade there)—we told them to "be virtuous and they would be happy."

We went to Goff's, bought a bunch of cheroots and distributed it among them—we ordered Sutterley to strike off several dozen of our photo's for the same purpose. We went up stairs, wrote a farewell epistle to our sweetheart, on the shore of the blue Michigan, combed our hair, and wandered out abstractedly on the balcony. The town clock told us our hour was up. We turned for the last time to gaze on the "holy city," with its "beautiful streams of running water," its brave men and fair women. We saw the walls of the "Lion House," surrounded by its hundred happy female hearts, and then our eye fell upon the irrepressible fanny man, Walter Bray—again we felt bad, and mentally repeated the lines of the immortal Gray:

"For who to dumb forgetfulness a prey,
This tedious, cruel being is he led—
Lest the warm precincts of the cheerful day,
Nor close long evenings looking bolded."

The policeman didn't come, we began to feel better, we saw one of our numerous legal advisers approaching, he told the man of law that related, he would take our appeal. We felt better.

NEW BARRER SHOP.

With reference to the above we would respectfully request the Gentlemen of this city to call on our establishment. We have a large stock of goods to satisfy every one who may give us a call. The business of this shop is to supply the people in the latest style of the Atlantic and Pacific and are really of the first water. Only the best of goods, simply from San Francisco will be used.

We told the man of law we would appeal. He said we couldn't. But the kind-hearted gentleman granted us one hour before going to jail. We felt very bad. We went up street—we called our small circle of friends about us, and drank a parting glass of lemonade,—(not at the church saloon—they don't make good lemonade there)—we told them to "be virtuous and they would be happy."

We went to Goff's, bought a bunch of cheroots and distributed it among them—we ordered Sutterley to strike off several dozen of our photo's for the same purpose. We went up stairs, wrote a farewell epistle to our sweetheart, on the shore of the blue Michigan, combed our hair, and wandered out abstractedly on the balcony. The town clock told us our hour was up. We turned for the last time to gaze on the "holy city," with its "beautiful streams of running water," its brave men and fair women. We saw the walls of the "Lion House," surrounded by its hundred happy female hearts, and then our eye fell upon the irrepressible fanny man, Walter Bray—again we felt bad, and mentally repeated the lines of the immortal Gray:

"For who to dumb forgetfulness a prey,
This tedious, cruel being is he led—
Lest the warm precincts of the cheerful day,
Nor close long evenings looking bolded."

The policeman didn't come, we began to feel better, we saw one of our numerous legal advisers approaching, he told the man of law that related, he would take our appeal. We felt better.
